Course Description:

This course intends to provide a conceptual framework of why financial institutions exist and how they function. In addition, the course intends to shed light on what various services those institutions offer. In describing each type of institution, the course emphasizes how financial institutions participate in financial markets. The course also provides complete exposition on financial institutions management, performance, and regulatory aspects. It will also analyze how financial institutions manage, absorb and control the risk they face. The objective of this course is enriching the students' knowledge with the practical aspects of financial institutions management which should serve a noble objective of enhancing the student's learning process.

Course Learning Outcomes:

The learning outcomes for this course, listed below, relate to the learning goals of the College of Business Administration Undergraduate Program, which can be found in the appendix at the end of this syllabus.
